Dear Sirs,

I truly wish that the federal government would simply just drop this whole case against Microsoft. To be sure Microsoft probably does not have entirely clean hands. But let the free-market kill Microsoft. Linux is an up & coming operating system. Apple Computer is making a come-back.

Let Microsoft kill themselves. If the government continues it's involvement, then all those persons supporting Microsoft will forever blame the government for Microsoft's failures. But if the government drops its case and allows the free-market to regulate Microsoft, then Microsoft will either change its ways or drown itself and have no one to blame but them selves.
